For Weather's Worst, Trust The Best From Atlas.

When Mother Nature lashes out, you shouldn't have to worry about your roof weathering the storm. Atlas StormMaster® shingles are designed to resist the harshest weather conditions including high wind, pounding rain and destructive hail.

StormMaster® shingles are made with a rubberized polymer, styrene-butadiene-styrene (SBS), specifically designed to make the shingles flexible, strong and durable providing superior impact, wind and water resistance.

During the manufacturing process, the SBS bonds to ingredients in the asphalt, creating an elastic network that behaves like rubber, allowing it to flex when impacted.

In addition to impact-resistance, StormMaster® shingles feature Scotchgard™ Protector, which helps prevent the appearance of black streaks caused by algae.

Not All Shingles

Average asphalt shingles without impact resistance may break or fracture during a hailstorm, exposing the roof to moisture penetration. This allows water to soak the roof deck, causing wood rot and leaks inside your home.

- 1 Cracked or broken shingles
- 2 Torn underlayment
- 3 Mold growth
- 4 Wood rot
- 5 Water infiltration

StormMaster® shingles are:

- Strong, flexible and durable
- Resistant to winds up to 130 mph
- Impact resistant
- Water resistant
- Algae resistant

So when the storm passes and the sun shines on your home again, your roof will still be beautiful, strong and ready to protect your biggest investment.

Are Created Equal.

Atlas StormMaster® shingles with UL 2218 Class 4 impact rating resist hail, leaving the underlayment, roof deck and home leak free.

- 1 Flexible shingles
- 2 Intact underlayment
- 3 Dry roof deck
- 4 Dry attic
